

Door-to-door transportation of 1200mm deep temperature-controlled server racks

AI Overview

Transporting 1200mm deep temperature-controlled server racks requires specialized packaging, climate control, and careful handling to ensure safe delivery of heavy, sensitive IT equipment.

Rack Specifications and Weight Considerations

Server racks with a depth of 1200mm, such as Lenovo 42U or APC NetShelter SX enclosures, typically support fully loaded configurations up to 950–1500 kg (2,100–3,300 lbs) and are designed for high-density server environments. These racks often include integrated cooling, power distribution, and monitoring systems, which add to the total weight and require careful handling during transport. Ensure that the transport vehicle and handling equipment can safely accommodate these weights.

Packaging and Protection

For door-to-door transport, engineered protective packaging is essential. This includes:

- Anti-static materials to prevent electrostatic discharge.
- Custom-molded high-density foam cradles to immobilize the rack and prevent internal movement.
- Heavy-duty, weather-resistant outer crates reinforced with plywood to withstand s...
