

Fiber optic cable orders

AI Overview

Fiber optic cables can be ordered in bulk or as pre-terminated assemblies from multiple trusted suppliers, with options for singlemode, multimode, and high-density configurations.

Types of Fiber Optic Cables

Singlemode (OS1/OS2) cables are ideal for long-distance, high-speed transmission and typically have a yellow jacket. Multimode cables (OM1, OM2, OM3, OM4, OM5) are used for shorter distances and higher bandwidth applications, with OM3/OM4 usually in aqua and OM5 in lime green for laser-optimized performance . Fiber counts range from 2 strands up to 288 strands, depending on network requirements .

Pre-Terminated vs Bulk Cables

Pre-terminated fiber optic assemblies come with connectors installed and tested at the factory, offering a plug-and-play solution that reduces installation time and errors. They are available in indoor, outdoor, armored, and hybrid configurations, and can include multimode or singlemode fibers . Bulk fiber cables allow for custom termination on-site and are suitable for large-scale deployments or flexible network designs .

Jacket Types and Environmental Considerations

Cable jackets vary based on installation environment:
