

Large-span bridges in Eastern Europe

Overview

Danyang-Kunshan Grand Bridge is 164. 4 miles long, the bridge between Langfang and Qingxian is 113. 6 miles, and Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macau Bridge 55 km / 34 miles. The longest bridge in Europe today is located in Russia, with quite a few more in Portugal and Germany, as well as in the Nordic countries of Denmark and Sweden. You will also notice that Italy is the country of many bridges for a reason, featuring some of the longest ones in Europe in the attached. The 1915 Çanakkale Bridge in Turkey, opened in 2022, has the longest central span (2,023 m) of any suspension bridge. It crosses the Dardanelles in Turkey. These bridges not only serve a functional purpose but also offer breathtaking views and stand as testaments to modern engineering. Or, at least, don't open your eyes while you travel across (or under!). Here are 25 of the most famous bridges in Europe. Each one is so uniquely beautiful.
