

Optical Module Sales Ranking

AI Overview

The top global optical module suppliers are led by InnoLight, Coherent (II-VI/Finisar), and Huawei, with Chinese companies increasingly dominating the market.

Top Global Suppliers (2025-2026)

Based on recent LightCounting and industry reports, the leading optical module companies are:

- InnoLight Technology (China) – Recognized as the largest pure optical transceiver supplier, rapidly expanding in high-speed modules (400G, 800G, 1.6T) and serving major hyperscaler data centers .
- Coherent (USA, formerly II-VI, including Finisar acquisition) – Offers a broad portfolio from 10G to high-speed coherent modules, strong in carrier and data center networks .
- Huawei / HiSilicon (China) – Maintains a strong position in DWDM and telecom optical modules, investing heavily in local supply chains despite U.S. export restrictions .
- Hisense Broadband (China) – Frequently appears in global top ten rankings, with stable transceiver shipments and growing international presence .
- Lumentum (USA) – Provides optical components and coherent transceivers, strengthened by the acquisition of NeoPhotonics .
- Accelink Technology (China) – Offers modules from 25G to 800G, expanding optical module chip capabilities .
- Eoptolink (China) – Ranked among the top global suppliers, focusing on Ethernet and data center modules .
- Cisco (USA) – Included after acquisitions of Acacia and Luxtera, providing coheren...
