

Price of network cable pigtails for computer rooms

AI Overview

Network cable pigtails for computer rooms typically range from $1-$10 per piece for copper Ethernet and $2-$15 per piece for fiber-optic pigtails, depending on type, length, and quality.

Copper Ethernet Pigtails

Copper Ethernet pigtails, commonly used for Cat5e, Cat6, or Cat6a connections in computer rooms, are generally priced between $1 and $10 per cable depending on length and shielding. Suppliers like Amazon and Mouser Electronics offer a variety of pre-terminated pigtails with RJ45 connectors suitable for patch panels and switches . For example, short Cat6 pigtails (0.5-1 meter) are usually at the lower end of this range, while longer or shielded cables cost more.

Fiber-Optic Pigtails

Fiber-optic pigtails, used for high-speed backbone connections or server room interconnects, are more expensive. Prices typically range from $2 to $15 per pigtail, depending on connector type (LC, SC, APC), fiber type (single-mode OS2 or multimode OM1-OM4), and packaging (single or bulk packs), . For instance, a pack of 12 LC APC OS2 simplex pigtails can be found on Amazon, offering cost efficiency for larger installations .
